Six Questions on November Ballot—TOWN TOPICS Urges Approval for Them All

When you step into the voting booth Election Day (Tuesday, November 4), you'll find two amendments to the New Jersey Constitution, and four Bond Issues to vote on, in addition to the candidates.

TOWN TOPICS recommends a "Yes" vote on all six.

Curiously, there has been little organized opposition, statewide, to the proposals, in contrast to anti-referendum campaigns of previous years. It is true that some environmentalists oppose the transportation issue because they would prefer to see more money ear-marked for mass transportation, and the New Jersey Taxpayers' Association opposes one amendment because it's a package amendment and because it would allow the Legislature to authorize tax-abatements.

But aside from these, there seems to be no firm opposing stance. In fact, odd alliances have been made in support of some measures. For example, the Water Resources Bond Issue is backed by the Sierra Club and the New Jersey Manufacturers Association and the state's Department of Labor and Industry—not always comfortable with one another --- are strong supporters of all four bond issues.

Princeton itself stands to benefit from passage of these measures. The Water Resources bond issue, for example, will provide money for completing the state's flood-plain delineations. Until that's done, the Borough won't know precisely where its flood prone areas are, and residents could be delayed indefinitely in acquiring the newly-available flood insurance.

That same bond issue includes money for rehabilitating the Delaware and Raritan Canal as a source of potable water. This is the canal at the southern boundary of Princeton Township. The Elizabethtown Water Company, which serves Princeton, draws water from it.

In the mass transit section of the Transportation bond issue is $70 million for the purchase of buses, and this holds out hope for Princeton's young Loop Bus System.

The first questions on the ballot are the two amendments to the New Jersey Constitution. First:

The Equal Rights Amendment.

This would amend the constitution to prohibit discrimination in New Jersey on the basis of sex. It's designed to protect the rights of individuals in New Jersey until the Federal Constitutional amendment is ratified. Sex could not be used as a determinant of legal rights for men and women. Laws of privacy and laws relating directly to physical characteristics unique to either sex, wouldn't be affected. Also, the amendment would apply only to state and local governmental action and to legal relationships. Private relationships would not be affected.

In Princeton, Borough Council unanimously passed a resolution on September 30 supporting the amendment. All four Township candidates have come out in support of it.

Long-Range Plans Revealed for Development Of 225-Acre Tract in Cherry Hill Road Area

A 225-acre parcel of land — perhaps the largest single remaining plot in the Township — is now the subject of careful study by a New York-based firm of architects, engineers and planners with the hope of development when plans — and the lifting of the sewer moratorium — permit.

The Dravo Corporation purchased the land in April from Karl D. Pettit, Ridgeview Road. (Mr. Pettit's middle name is Dravo). Gibbs & Hill, Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Dravo, is the planning and architecture firm now engaged in exploring the land and deciding what best can be done with it.

The acreage is a strange shape. B.H. McDonell, of Gibbs & Hill, thinks the shape may relate to old land-grants far back in Princeton's history. About 60 percent of the property is east of Cherry Hill Road, the remainder is west of Cherry Hill. Parts touch the Township line along Cherry Valley Road. To the south, the line is just north of Balcort Drive and on the west, the line weaves in and around the boundary of the Transcontinental Pipeline swath, including that easement in some places.

"We don't know yet what form the development will take," Mr. McDonell said this week. "Our objective is a high-quality residential development, but we don't know whether it would be townhouses, or what. We do feel there are markets in Princeton that are unmet — an adult community is one possibility. But it might be a combination of things — it's highly speculative right now."

IMPASSE DECLARED In Police Contract Talks.

Township police report this week that their talks with Township officials over a 1975 contract have reached an impasse.

Ptl. Robert E. Nielsen, president of the Princeton Patrolmen's Benevolent Association Local 130, of which the Township police are a part, commented that no new meetings have been scheduled. Township police, seeking an 8.5 per cent salary increase for 1975 and a 7 per cent increase for 1976, have been working without a contract since January 1.

Ptl. Nielsen reported that Howard Golden, attorney for the Township police negotiating committee, has informed the principal negotiators for the Township, Administrator Joseph R. Nini and William Sutphin, Committee and Township Police Commissioner, that the Public Employees Relation Committee (PERC) had been requested by police to enter the negotiations as a mediator.

Mr. Nini declined to comment on the impasse other than to say Tuesday that Township officials were for more than ten months and proposal should grow out of the studies we now have under way," he continued. "We've had numerous discussions with officials of town and county and state, and with environmental groups to learn about their goals and objectives, and what the constraints would be."

Informal Talks. Representatives of the firm have talked informally with Mayor Jay Bleiman and a few Planning Board members, asking questions. They've talked with police and fire officials, with the Township engineer and with various school officials.

"We want to understand how a development would fit into the town as a whole," is Mr. McDonell's explanation.

He said that his firm is making a series of analyses of the site. Engineers are studying its topography and slope, drainage, geology, soils, water table and the potential for erosion.

"It's an extremely beautiful site," he said, "streams, forest...we're examining the wild life and vegetation, trying to find out what's up there and to see what parts are environmentally sensitive and should be preserved in their natural state, and what parts can be partially developed."

"We'd like to preserve as much as possible in the natural state. The forest character of the land is a valuable aspect of the property. That's why people like to live there."

The architects and engineers have also talked with neighbors, particularly in the Arretton Road and Cherry Valley areas.

prepared to sit and negotiate openly any time with the police for as long as it takes to reach a settlement.

Ptl. Nielsen, in a prepared release, stated that the final proposal of the PBA 130 is a fair one and in line with salaries of other police departments in the area. Any pay settlement would be retroactive to January 1.

Township police maintain that the proposal is approximately $150 less per man than the 1975 contract agreed to last week by Borough police. West Windsor police, the third member of Local 130, are not involved in pay talks this year.

"Township police are willing to accept less in their pay checks than their brother officers in the Borough, yet this is still not acceptable to Township officials," continued Ptl. Nielsen in his release.

That rankles police. Ptl. Nielsen reported that the last two years of contract negotiations with Township officials have been the longest that veteran officers can remember. Police, he said, have bargained in good faith for more than ten months and meetings Being Held. When site and environmental analyses are complete, and the firm has a better idea of Princeton and its markets, there will be informal meetings with neighbors and with the Planning Board hoping for an interchange that will give the company some idea of what the community would like, before any specific proposals are formed.

"We're taking a slow and deliberate approach," Mr. McDonell said. He doesn't expect any informal talks to begin until after January 1.

Probably any project will need variances of some kind, although it isn't possible to say what they might be in the absence of any firm plans. Asked about the relation of the project to the "village" proposals outlined two years ago by the housing subcommittee of the Planning Board, Mr. McDonell said he'd understood that these plans were still "up in the air", adding, "we hope our plans would be in harmony with the long-range future plans of the community."

This is a relatively new area for Gibbs & Hill. The firm has a staff whose members are familiar with developments of this nature, but the company has worked largely in the fields of power plant construction and in the environmental fields. Gibbs & Hill has been a consultant to Battery Park City in New York City, and was involved with the Roosevelt Island Development Corporation.

Mr. McDonell declined to say what price-range the homes might be in, and he said, "We're very, very far from going to the Planning Board."

have reached the end of their patience.

Ptl. Nielsen concludes: "The discontent of the police officers in the Township is strong and a special PBA meeting will soon be called to outline any further actions (police) feel will be necessary to make Township citizens aware of our dilemma."

Members of the Township police negotiating committee include Det. Norman Servis, Det. Samuel Bianco, Ptl. Jerry Offredo, Ptl. Mario Musso and Ptl. Renn Kaminski.

LAWYER HIRED

To Help Borough. About half of the 40 or so towns caught in the "thorough and efficient" tax grinder, along with the Borough, have joined in hiring a lawyer—Robert Wilentz of Middlesex County—to help assemble the case that may convince the state to amend the law, Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley told his press conference this week.

The mayor said he doesn't expect any real action until after Election Day.

The mayor also said that Borough attorney Gordon Griffin has been asked to tell mayor and Council "how to conduct ourselves" under the state's new "Sunshine Law" that requires open meetings. The mayor said he himself isn't sure whether the law distinguishes between

Questions on Ballot

Recommendation: Vote "Yes."

Senior Citizen, Homestead, Property-tax Amendment. Under this amendment, the state Legislature could, if it wished, make three changes concerned with property taxes.

(1.) It could extend the present $160 senior citizen deduction to permanently and totally disabled home-owners, and to surviving spouses of home-owners who had themselves qualified for the deduction. Anyone receiving this deduction could also receive whatever homestead rebate the Legislature might set up.

(2.) The Legislature could also set up, if it decided to do so, a system of property-tax relief for home-owners and renters. It would be up to the Legislature to decide who would get relief, how much they would get and who would pay for it. Such legislative action is often called a "homestead" law.

(3.) The Legislature would also be given, under this amendment, the general authority to grant local governments like Princeton, the power to give limited property-tax exemptions.

The Legislature would decide which towns should be given this power, and would set up the guidelines. It's possible that municipalities themselves might be allowed to decide who would be eligible, how much the tax abatement would be, and what the time-limit would be, or the Legislature itself might decide to retain that power.

The New Jersey Taxpayers' Association opposes this amendment because it's a package measure, and doesn't give voters a chance to vote for one part and against another. Also, the N.J.T.A. doesn't like the idea of tax abatements; they only shift the tax burden among different classes, the organization says.

Some states, especially southern ones, have used tax abatements for years to attract industry, and sponsors of the amendment suggest that it could be used that way in New Jersey, too. So far, the state hasn't been able to use the tax-abatement carrot to entice industry because the Commission requires all property be assessed uniformly and taxed at a single rate in each

Nurses, Accountants Needed

Experienced volunteer help is needed by community service agencies in the Princeton area. There are no age limitations and all jobs are short-term. Immediate needs are for registered nurses (three hours of service needed at community hypertension and diabetes screenings in November) and accountants (advice needed by several agencies to help improve accounting procedures).

For further information, call the Council of Community Services at 924-5865 weekdays between 9 and 1.

municipality. That's why the amendment is proposed.

In Princeton, the two Township Republican candidates support this amendment. They point to older home-owners who feel the double squeeze of inflation and high taxes, and suggest the Township might want to give tax-abatements --- for a limited time --- as an incentive to people to fix up their homes.

Recommendation: Vote "Yes."

Bond Issues. The four bond issues total $922 million dollars, and state officials estimate that, if they pass, they can create 118,400 new jobs in New Jersey and over $1.7 billion in economic activity.

Joseph A. Hoffman, Commissioner of the Department of Labor and Industry, estimates that New Jersey will save $692 million in unemployment insurance benefits over a 65-week period, if the measures pass.

The four issues developed from the work of Governor Brendan T. Byrne's Capital Needs Commission, whose chairman was Donald S. MacNaughton, chairman and chief executive of the Prudential Insurance Company.

It's a hell of a time to sell a bond issue," Mr. MacNaughton told the New York Times earlier this month, "but at this point, New Jersey can't afford not to finance capital improvements. When your furnace is repaired several times at $100 a clip, then you'd better start thinking about buying a new one. That's where New Jersey is now. Roads, prisons, water quality and the state's buses are all deteriorating. The quality of life will deteriorate, too."

Transportation Bond Issue.

$600 million divided as follows: $300 for mass transit; $200 million for highways; $100 million for county and local aid, including $75 million for roads and $25 million for mass transit.

This is the first bond issue New Jersey has ever had with equal amounts for highways and for mass transit, although the line is blurred in parts of the state where buses --- which travel on highways --- are the only form of mass transit.

Highway money for local aid will be allotted only for capital road projects, not for maintenance. Mercer County, in which Princeton is located, will receive an estimated $4,178,000.

The $25 million for local mass transit aid will be held in reserve for two years, to allow towns and counties time to develop projects. Localities will have to contribute 10 percent of their own money.

It is possible that Mercer Metro, the county bus line, may receive some of this money to buy buses and if so, this could help Princeton's Loop Bus system, assuming the county takes it over.

Recommendation: Vote "Yes."

Human Services Facilities Bond Issue. $112 million. Money would be used in two ways: to upgrade existing institutions, and to develop alternative community centers for selected parolees and for mental patients so they could be cared for in the community, instead of in existing state institutions.

Under "Mental Health," $46.9 million would be used for such things as new boilers, demolition at various institutions, new roofs, emergency generators and for a program that would develop the alternative living centers, and provide the way to shift mental health patients from existing institutions to these centers. Twenty million would be used to build 13 community mental health centers.

Under "Penal Institutions," the bond issue would use $25.1 million to build youth residential units, a narcotic unit, and school facilities at various correctional institutions and it would also pay for new roofs, toilet fixtures, repairs of security walls, and so on. There would be $2.5 million as the state's share in a new residential unit for rehabilitation of the blind, to be built in northeastern New Jersey.

Recommendation: Vote "Yes."

Water Resources Bond Issue. $110 million. Combined with the $32.8 million remaining from the 1969 Water Conservation Bond Act, this bond issue would allow the Department of Environmental Protection to start a two-year capital program including water supply, water quality, shore protection and floodplain delineation.

Ten million would go toward rehabilitating the Delaware and Raritan Canal, from which Princeton's water company draws water; $40.2 million would be used to grant money to localities toward the

Committee Upholds Planning Board Approval Of Yedlin Housing But Appeals May Continue

By a 4-1 vote, Township Committee upheld on Monday night the Planning Board's approval of site plans for the Yedlin public housing project on Mt. Lucas Road.

In related actions, Committee member Elizabeth Hutter read a half-hour-long statement of dissent explaining her "no" vote; Dwight O. North, one of the two appellants, announced his resignation from the Flood Control Committee in protest against Committee's favorable action and injected the Yedlin question into the current political campaign by declaring that he might return to the Flood Control Committee "if Township Committee were re-constituted"; and William Brower, one of the group constituting the second appellant, told Committee there would be "possible new legal action."

Baruch Boxer, a protested but not a formal appellant, later said he hadn't decided whether his organization - the Mountain Lakes Brook Watershed Preservation Association - would appeal.

The long resolution, read by Mayor Jay Bleiman, declared that the site could be drained without overtaxing the public storm-drainage system, and without adversely affecting people who live downstream. Using generally accepted engineering practices, the resolution said, Mr. Yedlin's engineers had designed a retention basin that could serve in 15-year or 100-year storms "as these terms are generally understood" (the terms were repeatedly challenged in hearings before Planning Board and Committee).

The applicant had satisfied the surface-water drainage requirements of the site-plan ordinance, the resolution said.

(Mr. Yedlin has been operating under the former Township site-plan ordinance, not under the new joint Borough-Township ordinance.)

Appellants had protested that no independent engineers were called in, but the resolution said Committee didn't think there was any need for engineers beyond the Township's Joseph Hodak and Mr. Yedlin's Robert Jamieson, of Van Note-Harvey Associates.

Also, said the resolution, there is "no evidence" against Carl Lindbloom and Robert Englebrecht, site-plan members charged with conflict of interest. The resolution also defended Mr. Hodak from charges that he had compromised his independence of judgment.

Mrs. Hutter acknowledged Mr. Hodak's "beneficial" contributions, and said she had indeed heard that Mr. Lindbloom was perhaps the most critical of all site-plan members in his comments on the project. But she continued to protest his position as a tenant of an occasional consultant (on other projects) for J. Robert Hillier, Mr. Yedlin's architect.

However, most of Mrs. Hutter's dissent was directed toward the technical and the procedural. Re-asserting her "deep concern for the need for housing," she raised again the highly technical questions of retention basin design, the meaning of 15-year and 100-year storms and drew attention to what she said were contradictions in the testimony of Mr. Hodak and Mr. Jamieson.

Englebrecht had not been asked to serve on the new site plan board because of his opposition to public housing (Mayor Bleiman denied this later), and bemoaned what she called "a growing tendency to do it regardless of how we go about deciding to do it."

She referred with particular emphasis to the Zoning Board's approval of the modified plan, drawn up after Mr. Yedlin lost four acres of land he'd planned to use for the project.

"It's one pressing community need in conflict with another," she declared, urging a reduction in the 100 units as a concession.

He was confident the drainage plans would succeed, he said, and told Committee that the Natural Resources Inventory commissioned by the Township, doesn't support Mr. North's figures.

After the vote, Mr. North asked if he could speak, and Mayor Bleiman allowed him to do so. Once again, he charged that site plan members had not allowed him to ask questions at their meeting, and he charged them with "extremely bad government."

In sudden anger, Mayor Bleiman interrupted. "My colleagues said I didn't have to let anyone speak but I did. I won't let you impugn the"

Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority has expected from the state, is said to be in this section.

Other funds would be used for pipeline interconnections which would allow water to be distributed throughout northeastern New Jersey if there is drought; for shore-protection projects in coastline counties; for identification of areas with severe flood risks.

"Concerned Citizens for Clean Water" says that considering Federal money already appropriated, the $110 million in the bond issue actually converts to $1 billion worth of programs.

Recommendation: Vote
"Yes."

Housing Assistance Bond Issue: $100 million. Senior citizens and low-moderate income families would benefit from this issue. Money would be used for interest subsidies, operating cost subsidies,
rehabilitation and home improvement loans, and urban homesteading
programs.

About $85 million is planned as aid to new housing construction, and it is here that New Jersey officials say new jobs will be found. Home-improvement loans (or grants) would allow for the rehabilitation of old houses in healthy older neighborhoods.

Proceeds from bond sales would go into a Housing Assistance Fund under the Department of Community Affairs. The DCA Commissioner would send the Legislature an annual plan for spending housing assistance
money in the coming year, and an evaluation of previous expenditures. The plan would also have to go to a watchdog legislative committee, which could give the Appropriations Committee its opinion on how wisely the money was being spent.

Recommendation: Vote
"Yes."

Mr. North, angry as well, declared he was resigning
from the Flood Control Committee.

"If Township Committee is seriously interested in carrying out the protection of our water courses, I might

WOMAN DROWNS

In Griggstown Ditch. A North Brunswick woman
drowned in her car when it went off the flooded Griggstown causeway Sunday morning and submerged in a deep ditch between the Delaware and Raritan Canal and the Millstone River.

Two Franklin Township
policemen, roped together, recovered the body of 48-year old Mrs. Anne L. Kordowski of 51 Schmidt Lane through the slit top of her convertible. The car was submerged in approximately ten feet of water, and Mrs. Kordowski was trapped under it at least 15 minutes, police said.

According to police, Mrs.
Kordowski was using the causeway between Canal Road and Griggstown to go to a meeting in Montgomery Township and drove around a flood barricade. She reached an overflow area and tried to get through on the short cut when she lost her life. The car landed in three feet of water and was swept into the 10-foot wide, 10-foot deep ditch.

TOWNHOUSES TO ZONING

For Variances. The 14-unit townhouse project proposed for the University Cleaners property, will go before the Borough Zoning Board this Thursday. Design Interface,
Inc., a subsidiary of the J.
Robert Hillier architecture firm, needs six bulk variances: lot area, lot width, side yard, rear yard, coverage and useable open space.

The Board, when it meets at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall, will also take up a remand from Superior Court regarding the 32 Vandeventer property of R.
Peter Hodge, Inc. The court wants more testimony on the question of possible conflict between two uses on the same lot: a commercial storage warehouse in the rear, and the four-unit apartment in front.

The warehouse was built many years ago. A new owner, in the 1940s converted the two-apartment building in front to four apartments without Borough permission. Mr.
Hodge asked the Zoning Board for a conditional use authorization to make legal the conversion to four apartments, but the Zoning Board denied his request, citing possible conflict—traffic, safety and so on—between apartments and warehouse.

Mr. Hodge went to court over the matter, and the court has now asked for additional testimony. The Zoning Board could change its former ruling, if testimony shows
there is no conflict.

In one other case, the board will consider the request of John Delmouzos for bulk variances required to add one more apartment to the three-apartment building he owns at 62-64 Wiggins.

Imitations Replace Art Treasures after Theft; Loss at Elm Road House Estimated at $50,000

Almost $50,000 in art engravings, etchings and porcelain was stolen last month from the former Mary B. Langfeld home at 100 Elm Road.

The unusual theft has been revealed in detail for the first time this week because TOWN TOPICS learned of it through another source and asked police for full information. Chief Michael Carnevale gave no reason why his department had withheld a report on the case.

Twenty-one pieces of art with a combined value of $47,900 were taken and replaced with imitations. Chief Carnevale reported that the police investigation, which began September 23, has already led to three art dealers within the state, and "is proceeding at an accelerated rate." Police described the theft as "professional."

The most expensive item taken was a $6500 Rembrandt engraving entitled "Rembrandt Drawing at a Window." Other missing engravings and etchings were the works of such noted artists as Renoir, Vuillard and Toulouse-Lautrec, as well as Boehm porcelain birds and a rug.

The original engravings and etchings were removed from their wall frames and replaced with imitations; valuable art works were taken from the downstairs area and replaced with less valuable works from other parts of the house. Capt. Theodore Lewis, who is heading the police investigation, reported that the Boehm birds, taken from a mantel, were replaced with other objects so it would appear as if nothing was missing. There was no sign of forced entry.

House on the Market. At the time of the theft, the house was occupied by house-sitters. Police said that the Langfeld home has been up for sale. Her estate is being handled by Princeton Bank and Trust Co. "It's a very difficult case," said Chief Carnevale. More than 20 people, he explained, had rightful access to the home and some of these are now scattered throughout the country.

Police said that the theft was discovered when a visitor to the house, an art connoisseur, felt that what she had observed initially on a wall the first time she was there was not the same article when she visited the home a second time. Police described the imitations as good.

Continuing the investigation are Capt. Lewis, and detectives Thomas Michaud, Timothy Huizing and Ronald Holliday. Sergeant Arthur Gallant and Det. Charles Harris spent four days at the home dusting for prints.

equipment, jewelry...even an automobile carburetor and air cleaner...the list of stolen items on police dockets grows every week.

In the Borough, a John Street resident reported the theft of a $400 color television set while moving from an apartment. The set was among items left behind by the owner while half his other belongings were driven away in a truck. When he returned, the set was missing.

A $250 Navajo Indian bracelet with three large turquoise stones in a silver setting was shoplifted by two men from The Mesa, 195 Nassau Street. Police describe one suspect as 6-2, 180, 18-20, wearing olive green trousers and sneakers; the other as 5-5, 130, with wavy hair, wearing dark eyeglasses and a beige jacket.

An employee at the Princeton Medical Arts Building lost $108 Friday when someone took her blue leather wallet from her purse which she had left under a counter in an outer office.

There were two thefts from rooms in Pyne Hall on the University campus. This Tuesday morning at 3:40, while two women students were sleeping in their unlocked room, a thief entered and removed a total of $18 from their purses.

On Sunday, Ptl. William Clark investigated a forced entry into a student's room which yielded a stereo turntable, receiver and speakers valued at $625. Entry was between 7:45 and 9:40 p.m., police said.

Delayed Discovery. In the Township last week, Mary Gonzalez of Princeton Junction reported the theft of a $200 8-track stereo amplifier from her car while it was parked in the Princeton Shopping Center. She told police the amplifier had been left on the floor in the rear of her car and she did not discover it missing until she arrived home.

Another piece of stereo equipment, a $200 turntable and tape combination was reported stolen by Todd Swanstron, a Princeton University student.

He told police he was studying upstairs in his apartment at 32 Birch Avenue at night when he heard furniture moving downstairs. He assumed it was his roommate returning and continued to study. When he heard the front door open and someone leave, he investigated and found the stereo player missing. Police said entry was through an unlocked kitchen window.

Taken from a small foreign car parked in the drive of 263 South Harrison was the carburetor, air cleaner and set of tools with a combined value of approximately $150. Police identified the owner as Robert J. Van deVelde.

William Crowe, 1922 Hall, Princeton University, reported the theft of three sweaters and sweat shirt ($65 for all) from his room early last week. The room was partially ransacked by the intruder, who entered an unlocked window and pushed aside an interior screen.

In another theft at the Medical Arts Building, two employees in a doctor's office, Patricia Tatum of Princeton Junction and Mary B. Michael of North Brunswick, lost $30 and $23 in miscellaneous items between them when their purses were stolen from a rear room in the office. The pocketbooks were later found on the ground outside the building minus cash and credit cards.

Police said that someone had removed a screen to get inside. Ptl. John Hammond investigated.

VICTIM'S NECK CUT

In Robbery Attempt. A Short Hills resident received 13 sutures at the Princeton Medical Center last week to close a laceration of the neck which he received when two men attempted to rob him at knife point.

Police said that the victim, in his 50s, was walking in the Tulane West parking lot off Tulane Street Friday night when he was approached by two men. One held a knife to his throat. "Give us your money," they demanded.

Chief Michael Carnevale reported that the victim managed to throw the man with the knife over his shoulder and then bit his finger. The two fled toward Witherspoon Street, without any money.

The suspect with the knife was described as 6-2, wearing a slouch hat and short dark jacket. The incident took place around 9:30.

Robbed of $100. At 10:06 the same night, Ptl. Victor Fasanello and Ptl. Peter Hanely investigated an armed robbery in the Stanworth area—possibly by the same two men, Chief Carnevale conceded.

He reported that a middle-aged man, walking on John Street, was accosted by two men. One grabbed him from behind, covering his eyes, while the other rifled his pockets and took $100. The victim was punched about the face and threatened with a knife. He was later treated at Princeton Medical Center for abrasions of the mouth and chin.

RENT APPROVED

Landlord Upheld. By unanimous vote Thursday, the Borough's rent-leveling board decided that landlord Robert Nelson was within—in fact, well within—the Borough's rent-leveling ordinance when he increased the rent on Carolyn Moore's 46 Spring Street apartment. The September 1 increase was from $200 to $228.

In the 4-0 vote (the board has seven members and four is a quorum), the board found that the $228 rent was within the allowable limit. In fact, according to the formula in the ordinance, the rent was actually below what Mr. Nelson could have levied.

RAPE ATTEMPTED

On University Student. Det. Frank Boccanfuso, Ptl. Jerry

Offredo of the Township and members of the Mercer County Rape Squad are continuing their investigation of an attempted assault and rape of a University student last week.

Chief Frederick Porter reported that the victim was walking across Pardee Field on campus about 10:30 last Wednesday evening, approaching Lot 5 off Washington Road, when she was grabbed by the arm from behind, struck in the face and forced to the ground.

She managed to break away from her attacker, police said. After kicking him hard enough to cause him to release her, she ran toward Dillon Gym.

Her attacker was described by police as white, about 5-10 or 11, medium build with medium length dirty blonde hair and wearing dirty clothing. He was between 30-35 and had a deep voice.

A Strong Democratic Mayor
For a Democratic Council

Under Jan Schneier, the Democrats in Princeton Borough have waged a campaign based upon the issues that clearly set the differences between Republicans and Democrats. The campaign has emphasized the need to have a strong Democratic Mayor at the helm of a Democratic Council.

Borough citizens are concerned about consolidation. They fear a dilution of their political power. They fear an increase in taxes. They are uncertain about the economic benefits of consolidation. Jan knows this and has faced the issue, resolved that it cannot be decided without involvement of Borough citizens.

For the past few years the creative actions taken by the Democratic Borough Council have been of great value to the citizens of Princeton. Such initiative will be enhanced by the woman who enjoys the support and respect of the Borough Council. Jan Schneier, through her effective leadership in previous campaigns and her knowledge of municipal affairs, has earned that support.

Give Borough citizens a strong Democratic Mayor to lead this Democratic Council.

New Rink in West Windsor to Open Saturday-First Two Weeks of Skating Free to Everyone

Mercer County's new ice skating center in Mercer County Park, West Windsor, will open on Saturday. The new center will be open to the public from Saturday through Friday, November 7. The hours for the first two weeks of free skating will be 10 to noon, 1 to 3, 4 to 6 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Freeholder Director Richard R. Sypek, Richard J. Lee, president of the Park Commission; Peter J. Morgan, Jr., executive director, and James Maggerty, parks superintendent, will participate in the opening ceremonies with other public officials and special guests.

The skating center, equipped for making artificial ice, measures 85 x 200 feet. A planned smaller rink, which was to have been reserved for young children and specialty skaters, was eliminated because of budget considerations. The Park Commission is hopeful that this smaller rink can be constructed at a later date.

In the meantime, provision is being made for special groups, such as figure skaters, hockey teams and other groups to reserve time on the large rink. The main focus for center use will be directed toward open skating for the general public.

The rink is roofed, but not enclosed, as per federal regulations which limit construction to either roof or sides. Federal guidelines were followed because the county received a matching grant from the federal government-area.

Public demand for the center has resulted from changing weather patterns which have brought warmer winters, thus making it increasingly impossible to skate outdoors. The new facility will be available during the fall, winter and early spring seasons regardless of weather conditions. It may also be used year 'round if efforts to offer roller skating are successful.

The center is adjacent to the athletic fields in Mercer County Park and includes an additional parking lot to serve both the rink and playing areas. Also included are locker space, a warming room, ice skating rental, food concessions and a first aid area.

FIVE ARE INJURED
In Sunday Collision. Four members of one family and the driver of a second car were injured Sunday morning around 11 when their automobiles collided on The Great Road East, some 70 feet from the intersection of The Great Road.

Ptl. David Funk charged Muriel H. Dodge, 47, Cherry Brook Drive, with failing to keep right. Because of the wetness of the roads, no skid marks were visible from either car. Both had to be towed away.

Mrs. Dodge sustained contusions of the chest. Injured in the second car were the driver, Dorothea L. Heinzl, 40, Drakes Corner Road, lacerations of the eye, and three passengers.

Lucy Heinzl, 16, sustained a fractured leg, Mary Agnes Heinzl, 8, facial injuries, and Kathren Heinzl, 11, a fractured hip. All were treated at Princeton Medical Center.

Saturday around 4 p.m. two cars and a pedestrian were involved in a turning accident at Washington and Faculty Roads.

Richard L. Fein, 18, White Pine Lane, attempting to make a left turn off Washington onto Faculty, was struck by a car operated by Robert J. DiMassa, 22, 213 Varsity Avenue, Penns Neck. According to police, the DiMassa car had tried to go around in front of the Fein car after the latter, which had slowed, had suddenly proceeded ahead.

The impact spun the Fein car around, causing it to strike a pedestrian, Carol Rusciano, 29, who was crossing in the roadway. Mr. Fein was issued a summons for failing to yield the right of way. Neither he nor his two passengers were injured.

Mr. DiMassa and Ms. Rusciano sustained minor injuries. Donna DiMassa, 21, suffered contusions and abrasions of the arm. The road surfaces were wet at the time, police said.

Both Claim Green Light. In the Borough near 6 Thursday evening, two cars collided at the intersection of Elm Road and Cleveland Lane.

Ptl. Victor Fasanella issued careless driving summonses to each driver, both of whom claimed to have had a green light. Police checked the traffic light and reported it to be working properly. Both cars had to be towed away.

After impact, a car operated by Catherine Brettsmith, 52, 211 Prospect Avenue, jumped the curb, continued on 14 feet before coming to rest on the front lawn of 182 Elm. It traveled 56 feet after impact.

The second car, driven by Barbara R. Tenney, 23, of Trenton, jumped the northeast corner and came to rest on the shoulder portion of the road. Her car left 20 feet of skid marks, the Brettsmith car none.

Both women complained of minor injuries.

A three-car collision took place at Stockton and Library Place Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Marion M. Kelleher, 176 Parkside Drive, reportedly pulled from Library Place into the path of a car traveling on Stockton operated by Erna J. Bocobo, 38, 6 Tyson Lane.

Mrs. Kelleher was ticketed for a stop sign violation. She told Sgt. Robert Anderson that she had been waiting to cross a long time. When she started up, her wheels slipped on the wet surface and she was unable to get traction.

The impact caused the Kelleher car to slide sideways in an arc into a car driven by Mary E. MacConnell, 24, 2 Maple Avenue, Plainsboro, which was stopped at the stop sign of Library Place facing south. She and the driver of the Bocobo car suffered minor injuries.

SCHOOL AGENDA

Tuesday's the Day. When the school board meets Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Community Park, the audience can participate in discussion about public participation in board meetings.

The code, prepared by the board's policy committee under Dietrich Meyerhofer, spells out in careful detail the procedures for written and oral confrontation with the board. The board is expected to adopt the code on Tuesday.

The board will talk about a possible staff-hiring code, also prepared by Mr. Meyerhofer's committee, but will not act on Tuesday.

Official school enrollment is 3,335, under the budgeted amount by 73 pupils. The system will pick up 150 new pupils as a result of the opening of Princeton Community Village. The estimate was 135.

Superintendent Philip E.

McPherson told a Tuesday press conference that two of the high school's outhouses will be taken away: no longer enough students (1,094) to fill them. Each building has two classrooms, and at $5,000 per classroom in leasing fees, removal of the buildings will save the system $20,000.

FIGURES CHALLENGED

On Taxes By Republican. Richard Woodbridge, Republican candidate for the Princeton Borough Council, has charged Democrats with publishing misleading tax data.

"The Democratic campaign brochure claims that the Democratic Borough Council has 'held the increase in taxes to 1 percent per year' for the last three years. That is not true. The fact is that the average Borough municipal tax bill increased by 12 percent in 1972 alone, when the mandatory sewer rental charge is included as it was in 1974."

"For example," he said, "my tax bill for 1975 includes $228.38 for the local municipal tax and $26.24 for the new sewer rental charge, making my total municipal tax $254.62. In 1972 the total local municipal tax on property assessed at the same value was only $226.75. The municipal tax on our house clearly increased by 12.2 percent over last year alone. Most taxpayers will find that the new sewer rental charge is about 6 percent to 18 percent of their local municipal tax rate."

CONGRESSMAN HERE

To Help Democrats. Congressman Andrew Maguire, Bergen County Democrat, will come to Princeton this Friday to support the Borough Democratic campaign and that of his Oberlin classmate, Jan Schneier, who is running for mayor.

Mr. Maguire, will meet Princetonians at a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bohlen, FitzRandolph Road.

LADY BUG VISITED

By Shoplifters. A Trenton woman, Mary McKeller, 22, was arrested last week and being charged with shoplifting, following two incidents of theft Friday at Lady Bug on Nassau Street.

Around noontime, three articles of clothing, including a $36 striped dress, were stolen from the store. A clerk told police a couple was in the store at the time.

Around 8 that evening, four multi-colored blouses valued at $146 and three dresses ($150) were taken. This time police were informed that five suspects were in the store prior to discovering the theft. They were given a description of the five.

Next morning, police received a call that one of the previously reported suspects was inside the store again. Ptl. James Agins and Det. Thomas Michaud responded and arrested Ms. McKeller. She was later released after being issued a complaint summons.

BUS TRIP PLANNED

To Historical Homes. The Historical Society will take its second Fall Bus Trip on Tuesday to Clifton and Wayne to see the Hamilton-Von Weigand House, the Dey Mansion and the Van Riper-Hopper House. The bus will depart from the Princeton Shopping Center at 9 and return at 5:30.

The cost for members is $17.50, including transportation, a sit-down lunch at the Burns Country Inn, admissions and a $5 tax deductible donation to the Society. The charge for non-members is $20. Reservations close on Thursday.

NEW BOOK SALE SET

At Stuart School. Stuart Country Day School will hold its annual New Book Sale, Monday through Friday, from 10:30 to 4:30, at the school. Mrs. Mel Z. Felsher and Mrs. Peter Mark are co-chairmen for the event which promises an array of books for the gourmet, the connoisseur, the traveler, the art lover, the reader of current best sellers, the craftsman, the hobbyist, the sportsman and children of all ages.

A highlight of the New Book Sale will be a visit by the children's book author, Alvin Schwartz, on Thursday, October 30, between 9 and 10. Mr. Schwartz writes rhymes, riddles and limericks for the 8 to 13-year-old group in books such as "Cross Your Fingers, Spit in Your Hat," "A Twister of Twists, A Tangler of Tongues," "Tom Foolery," "Whoppers," and "Wit-Tracks." The author will autograph any of his books bought at the sale.

Throughout the week, Connie Haines, an authority on physical fitness and co-author with John Conroy and Eve Kraft of the U.S.L.T.A. approved book, "Speed, Strength and Stamina-Conditioning for Tennis", will speak to the Stuart gym classes.

LET'S MAKE A STUDY

Of Flooding Brooks. Flood studies of Mountain Lakes Brook and the Riverside drainage basins will be undertaken following Township Committee's action Monday night in appropriating $72,000 for the survey.

Financing will be done through special emergency notes; one-fifth of them will mature each year.

sultant fees and $1,000 for mapping in the Riverside area. The remainder is for legal and advertising fees.

Mayor Jay Bleiman said he'd like to share this expense with the Borough, omitting the Riverside part of the study.

Mr. Hosford asked whether Committee had considered the Environmental Commission's request for an Environmental Officer. Mr. Moffat said the proposal was in the Commission's budget request and would be considered along with everything else.

In the $78,000 are $38,000 for consultant fees for Mountain Lakes Brook and $26,870 for mapping and $5,000 for con-to subdivisions, and the ordinance requiring developers to submit culvert plans to the county.

"Remarkable!" exclaimed the mayor happily at the seven per cent Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority bond offer made by Hornblower & Weeks-Hemphill Noyes.

This drew alarmed comments from William Cherry, who protested that the public hadn't been consulted about the state's reported withdrawal of its expected 15 per cent share in the cost of the Authority's project. He also expressed alarm at the consequences to the Township of uncontrolled growth in Hopewell Township.

He asked, with a shiver, whether the Township might not be "on a roller-coaster we can't get off," and he reminded Committee of a clause in the Township's Authority agreement allowing it to get out if it doesn't like the environmental predictions.

"What are the alternatives?" asked Mayor Bleiman. "Would you bring the whole house of cards down NOW? Even if the state allowed us to go it alone, our plant doesn't meet standards."

He told Mr. Cherry that the Authority must vote on the environmental assessment for the Hopewell Township segment, and assured him, "We'd tell our representative on the Authority to vote 'no' if it's environmentally disastrous."

Ride Your Broomstick in Halloween Parade

Get into your costume, pretend your bike is a witch's broom, and zoom off to Princeton High School's Walnut Lane parking lot for the Halloween Parade. The time is 6:30 p.m. next Thursday—a witching hour if ever there was one.

Games, entertainment, music, refreshments will all be part of a party to be held after the parade. The line of march and the location of the party are darkly held secrets, but they'll be revealed in schools in plenty of time.

The sponsor this year is the Princeton Borough Democratic campaign. The parade was threatened with extinction because there isn't enough public money, but the Democrats have come to the rescue, and are even inviting Republicans to march along.

Volunteers who want to help run games, pour cider, straighten goblins' masks and keep ghosts from tripping on sheets are invited to call Martin P. Lombardo (he's chairman) at 921-7079.

WORKER HURT

As Scaffolding Collapses. A Princeton resident, Francis C. Sweeney of 19 Murray Place, was among five construction workers injured last Wednesday when scaffolding gave way at the Quaker Bridge Mall on Route 1.

Mr. Sweeney, a bricklayer, is listed in satisfactory condition in Princeton Medical Center with a right leg injury. Also in satisfactory condition in the Medical Center is Nicholas D'Angelo of Bordentown who suffered head and right leg injuries. Three other men were treated and released.

The accident occurred as the masons were cementing "split face" blocks over what will be the main entrance on the west side of the 100 store mall. Skee Trenner, construction coordinator for Kravco, Inc., the developer of the mall, said that apparently a bracket was bent on one of the three triangular metal braces which supported a platform of 2 x 10 boards extending beyond the scaffold. When one brace collapsed, both boards fell.

The five workers fell down through the 18-inch space between the rough brick wall and the metal scaffold. Some fell 30 feet to the ground, while others were caught in the scaffolding. An aerial ladder was called to help extract some of the injured.

DRIVE MOVING WELL

For United Fund. The United Fund-Red Cross campaign of the Princeton Area has received contributions exceeding $170,000 during the first two weeks of its drive to raise a needed $655,000 for 20 non-profit agencies serving communities in the Princeton area.

"Once-a-year, tax-deductible contributions are coming in almost twice as fast as they did last year," said Campaign Chairman, Dr. Aleck Borman, "and we believe we have a chance to achieve our total goal for the first time in six years."

Research and industrial firms, and individuals contributing Special Gifts of $100 or more are being asked to contribute nearly 80 per cent of this year's $655,000 goal. So far these two groups have given a good percentage of their quotas and are the single biggest reason for the fast pace being set by this year's Campaign.

well ahead of last year are Financial Institutions, Mercantile, and Princeton University, faculty, staff and administration. The largest single gift received to date is $9,000 from E.R. Squibb & Sons of Princeton.

The United Fund-Red Cross hopes to reach 50 per cent of this year's Campaign Goal by November 1, 75 per cent by December 1 and 100 per cent by the end of the year. "We're working extremely hard to keep up the momentum we've already got going," says Dr. Borman, "and we hope that everyone who hasn't contributed will consider doing so in the next few weeks."

FOUR ARE FINED

In Township Court. Four Princeton area residents were fined last week in Township Court by Judge Philip Carchman.

Fined for speeding were Diana Z. Manduca, 5 Jeffrey Lane, Princeton Junction, $40; Jesus Castaneda, 13 Montgomery Avenue, Rocky Hill, $34; and Perry W. Carter, 67 Princeton Arms, Cranbury, $33. Jay Brenneman, 389 Prospect Avenue, paid $30 for failure to keep right.

In Borough Court Monday, Judge Carchman fined Elizabeth S. Ettinghasen, 24 Armour Road, $20 for disregarding an officer's signal. Charles Zee, 85 Lawrence Apartments, paid $10 for operating a bicycle at night without lights.

In criminal court last week, Mary K. Barry, 5 Greenholm, was fined $35 and placed on probation for three months for trespassing.

HOME IS RANSACKED

On Rosedale Lane. A rear window was pried to enter the home last week of Leroy Schwartz, 44 Rosedale Lane.

Police said that the living room, den, master bedroom and children's room were ransacked. They have, however, not received a list of missing items. The entry was reported at 10:15 Sunday night.

AMNESTY GROUP MEETS

Works to Free Prisoners. The Princeton Chapter of Amnesty International is participating in a "Prisoner of Conscience Week," in which a special effort will be made to free 12 long-term prisoners selected by the London headquarters for international action.

The prisoners are in Taiwan, Indonesia, Rhodesia, USSR, Paraguay, Turkey, Cuba, Rwanda, Yemen, Spain, Tunisia and Singapore. The group will mount a letter writing campaign to members of governments of these countries in an effort to free the prisoners.

A prisoner of conscience is one who has been imprisoned solely for his political or religious beliefs and thus, according to the UN Declaration of the Rights of Man is one whose rights have been arbitrarily abridged. In the past 18 months the Princeton group, under the leadership of Henry Wood of

DEMOCRATS for Princeton

IS THIS BOROUGH HALL? No, it's the town dump ("sanitary landfill"). But these three candidates are either in Borough Hall and want to remain there, or aspire to enter. They are Republican Mayor Robert W. Cawley (left) running for his third term, and Council aspirants John Bleimeier and Richard Woodbridge. They are shown at the landfill to underscore Mr. Cawley's view that Princeton's solid waste should go to centrally-located, county-operated regional facilities.

DEDICATION MONDAY

At Frick Chemistry Lab. The dedication of the recently renovated Henry C. Frick Laboratory on Monday will culminate with an 8 p.m. lecture entitled "Promise and Peril," by Brown University president Donald F. Hornig. A former Princeton resident and chemistry professor, Dr. Hornig will speak in the Kresge Auditorium of the building in which he used to teach.

The Kresge Foundation which has been a major contributor to the construction and renovation on the campus will be represented during the dedication by William H. Baldwin, president of the Foundation. The funds which made possible the renovation of the laboratory were contributed to the University's ongoing $125 million Development Program.

The Henry C. Frick Laboratory was opened in 1929 as one of the major university chemistry laboratories in the country. It strengthened a tradition begun in 1795 when Princeton became the first American College to appoint a professor of Chemistry and

GOTTLIEB NAMED

As Borough Representative, Golda Gottlieb was appointed a Borough member of the Princeton Regional Planning Board by Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley and Council last week. Mrs. Gottlieb has been serving as a Township member of the Board although she moved into the Borough some time ago. Council also re-appointed Esther Dilworth to another term on the Housing Authority. Because of the sewer moratorium, Seward Johnson has not been able to proceed with construction of his sculpture studio on Mercer Road and Council granted him an extension of his zoning variances.

BREAKFAST PLANNED

By Twin W Association. The Twin W. First Aid Association will sponsor a Pancake Breakfast Saturday, November 1, from 8:30 to 1, in the Fellowship Hall of the Presbyterian Church in Dutch Neck. Proceeds of this event will go to provide extra funds for the work of the Squad.

The charge for the breakfast is $2 for adults and $1.25 for children. Further information and tickets may be obtained from Carol Osborn, 799-1362, or Barbara Tuthill, 799-2842.

The Twin W First Aid Association recently presented the squad with a contribution to be used to purchase first aid equipment. The gift is the result of a year of fund raising projects by the Association, whose main purpose is to assist the Squad in its work. Anyone wishing to make a contribution may send a check to P.O. Box 385, Princeton Junction.

New Edition of Community Phone Book Will Go Into Homes, Offices Here Starting Saturday

More than 5000 newcomers to Princeton will be formally introduced to their new neighbors this week when their names appear in print in the pages of the 1976 Princeton Community Phone Book, scheduled for distribution starting Saturday.

Not connected with Ma Bell in any way, The Princeton Community Phone Book is a home-grown independent publication. Launched in 1961 by Joseph Boyd, a Princeton resident, in cooperation with the Princeton Chamber of Commerce, the Phone Book has been published every fall since 1961 and distributed free of charge to just about every residence and office in Princeton and vicinity, including Rocky Hill, Montgomery Township, Kendall Park and parts of other communities adjoining Princeton.

From its beginning—and long before Woman's Lib began making headlines—The Princeton Community Phone Book has been listing the given names of Princeton wives as well as their husbands. This unique feature of the Phone Book is a principal reason why, according to Mr. Boyd, repeated surveys show that more than two out of three Princetonians prefer The Princeton Community

Phone Book to Ma Bell's rival telephone directory.

In addition to wives' given names, the book also lists several thousand local telephone numbers which do not appear at all in the Bell book, including hundreds of local religious, civic, cultural and social organizations and several thousand Princeton University campus office listings which can be dialed direct from off-campus telephones.

Like Ma Bell's Yellow Pages, The Princeton Community Phone Book is principally financed by its advertisers, whose names also appear in bold face type in the white pages of the Phone Book. To assure completeness, Princeton business firms which do not support the Phone Book are nevertheless listed free of charge in the white pages of the Phone Book, but their names do not appear in bold face type.

Local residents and religious, civic, cultural and social organizations are listed free of charge in The Princeton Community Phone Book and are invited to send in their listings before June 1 each year for publication in the next issue. Any Princeton resident or office manager who doesn't receive his or her 1976 Princeton Community

Phone Book by November 10 is invited to notify the Phone Book so that a replacement copy can be mailed or delivered.

October 28th & 30th: Hear Merrill Lynch tell how to manage your money in today's changing economy

Mail the coupon below for tickets to the Merrill Lynch Seminar: "How to Manage Your Money in Today's Changing Economy." It's free, but seating is limited, so mail today.

Not just another lecture

This Seminar is your chance to learn better ways to invest your money from professionals. Absolutely free.

Some topics we'll cover: What to do with money you want to keep safe. How to get high interest without tying up your money. An investment you should avoid if you're in a high tax bracket. And more.

You'll also receive a free copy of "Investments For a Changing Economy" — a 16-page booklet with facts and figures to help you decide which investments you should choose and avoid — right now.

Are you bullish on America?

The past year can be summed up in one word: change. The way to go might be stocks one day, Treasury Bills the next. Or an investment tactic you've never heard of before.

But this flurry of change has also brought new opportunities. For high interest. Growth. Steady income. And for small investors to participate in markets that had never before been available to them. We haven't pulled in our horns. Merrill Lynch is bullish on America.

Come to the Seminar. It's free. But seating is limited. Send coupon for tickets and reserved seats now.

Time, Date and Location:

We've scheduled two seminars. Take your pick:
Tuesday, October 28th, 8:00 p.m.

News Of The CHURCHES

TO MARK ANNIVERSARY
All Saints' Church will celebrate its 15th anniversary as a chapel and its fourth year as a church and parish on Sunday, November 2, with a Choral Evensong at 5:30, followed by the Annual Dinner and Annual Meeting.

Although the true birthday of the church is on All Saints' Day, November 1, the main celebration has been held for the past several years on the first Sunday evening following.

Mrs. William Flemer is in charge of the Gourmet Potluck Dinner to which parishioners contribute casseroles, salads, rolls or cookies. Four members of the Vestry, a Junior Warden and representatives to the Diocesan Convention and Trenton-Burlington convocation will be chosen at the annual meeting.

MINISTER INSTALLED
For Korean Church. The Princeton Korean Church, which meets at the Nassau Presbyterian Church every Sunday at 2, recently observed its second anniversary and officially installed its new minister, the Rev. Oo Ik Chang.

The new pastor is a graduate of Westminster and Princeton Theological Seminaries and comes to Princeton after three years in the Glenside, Pa., Korean Church, of which he was the founding pastor. In addition to visiting and counseling Korean people in this area, he edits a Korean evangelistic magazine, "The Word for the World."

The Princeton Korean Church consists of approximately 65 adults and 35 children from various communities in the central New Jersey area. In addition to the regular worship service, activities include bilingual Sunday School classes for the children and an informal fellowship time following the worship service, a Friday night Bible study group in Trenton and other meetings for fellowship and worship.

CONCERT SUNDAY
At Dutch Neck Church. A program for voices, instruments and organ will be presented on Sunday, at 8, at the First Presbyterian Church in Dutch Neck, 54 South Mill Road at Village Road. The recital is the second in a series of concerts featuring the new pipe organ designed and built by Robert Turner.

Arlene Jones, organist at the Dutch Neck Church, has arranged and organized the program. Mrs. Jones plays with the Music Club and the Princeton Opera Association and performs regularly in chamber music programs. The Senior Choir under the direction of Dr. Albert Jansson will open the evening with A Festival Prelude of many well-known Bach chorales.

Anne Hoffmann and Robert Lohmann are the soloists of the Bach Cantata No. 51 "Jauchzet Gott in allen Landen," a piece for coloratura soprano and trumpet. Ms. Hoffmann has sung with the Princeton Opera Association and performed at the Liederkranz Foundation of New York City.

Mr. Lohmann is principal trumpeter of the Princeton Community Orchestra. The soloists will be accompanied by violinists Joan Cordas and Nancy Schutz, by cellist Katrina Jones and organist Arlene Jones.

Handel's Organ Concerto in B flat major will be performed with strings and flutes accompaniment. A Piece in Free Form by Jean Langlais, for string quartet and organ and "Thou Art the Rock" by Mulet will conclude the program.

Other instrumentalists taking part will be John Kalajian, cello, Joycelyn Kalajian and Carina Mechem, violins, Frank Gross and Barbara Thompson, violas, and Susan Bishop and George Jones, flutes. All are members of the Church.

In Trinity Service. Music by Mozart will be featured at the 11:15 Eucharist on Sunday, at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street, when the Girls' Choir of Christ Church in Greenwich, Conn. will join with the Choir of Girls and Men at Trinity.

During the service the Missa Brevis in B Flat Major (K.275) will be sung liturgically, and the combined choirs will be accompanied by a string ensemble and organ. The solo quartet in the Mozart Mass will be from the Trinity choirs and will include Suzan Thompson, soprano; Shirley Kinsley, mezzo soprano; Lester Erich, tenor; and David Arnold, baritone.

The Greenwich girls will be guests of Trinity choir girls during a weekend of rehearsals and sight seeing in the Princeton area. Robert Tate, organist and choir-master of the Greenwich church, and former assistant organist at Trinity, will accompany the choir on their trip to Princeton. Mr. Tate will conduct the combined choirs in works by Byrd and Britten at the 9:15 service at Trinity.

The Faith and Fellowship Society of Bunker Hill Lutheran Church of Griggstown will hold its monthly meeting on Friday, at 8 p.m. Pastor and Mrs. S. Dokken of Bergenfield will sponsor the evening service.

The Episcopal Churchwomen of St. Barnabas Church will hold a Centennial Sale Thursday and Friday at the Church on Sand Hill Road, South Brunswick, from 7-9 p.m. Handmade items, a children's table, plant place, next-to-new shop and baked goods will be featured.

consumer in the audio field, which he admits can be very confusing, and to specialize in highly-accurate and sophisticated equipment which meets the highest of standards. "We will not attempt to be an audio super-market."

Mr. Brower was quick to add, however, that Sonex will have equipment in several price categories. "Just because we have $2500 pre-amps and $3000 amplifiers doesn't mean we don't value the customer who doesn't want to spend that much. We feel the consumer is entitled to the best equipment and service his money can buy, whether his budget is modest or unlimited," Mr. Brower said.

He hopes to be able to clear up many of the misconceptions people have about high fidelity equipment. Mr. Brower added that Sonex will service only the equipment it sells to ensure that its customers are promptly served.

Those who want to browse, fiddle with a $3000 amplifier or discuss hi-fi with Mr. Brower may do so weekdays from 10 to 6 (Saturday's til 5) or on Thursday evening til 9.

HOW IT ALL BEGAN
Gallup, Crossley to Speak. Survey researchers in central New Jersey are planning the second meeting of what may become a chapter of the American Association of Public Opinion Research.

The November 5 meeting will be held at Prospect House campus. For information or reservations, call Robert Bezilla, of Benson & Benson, or Cheri Marshall of Mathematica, both in Princeton.

Keynote speakers at dinner-meeting will be Princeton pioneers of election surveys, George Gallup, and Archibald Crosley, both of whom began their political polling careers with the 1936 elections. Their topic will be "Reminiscences on the Early Days of Polling."

The purposes of the newly-formed group are to provide an informal forum for survey researchers to exchange ideas, and to encourage closer ties among research firms and colleges and universities. The meetings are open to anyone who has a serious interest in public opinion research.

SEMINAR SCHEDULED
By Investment Firm. Merrill Lynch will hold a seminar, "How to Manage Your Money in Today's Changing Economy," Tuesday evening at 8 and again Thursday evening, at the Merrill Lynch Trenton office in the Lawrence Shopping Center, Route 1.

Topics to be covered include: What to do with money that must be kept safe; how to get high interest without tying up money; and an investment to be avoided by those in a high tax bracket. Merrill Lynch notes that the past year can be summed up in one word - change - but thinks the flurry of change has brought new opportunities.

Seating is limited but may be reserved by telephone, 396-4051, or by sending in the coupon in the advertisement on page 18.

News Of The THEATRES

...FROM XEROX
 To McCarter. "The Royal Family," opening next Thursday, October 30 at McCarter, is one of ten plays the Xerox Corporation is producing with the John F. Kennedy Center in Washington.

According to Xerox, the corporation has committed up to $400,000 to The American Bicentennial Theatre --- a series of American plays which will tour the country in commemoration of the Bicentennial. The A.B.T. series began last July with the Kennedy Center production of "Skin of Our Teeth." The current Bicentennial Theatre tenant at the Kennedy Center is "Sweet Bird of Youth."

"The Royal Family" is the George S. Kaufman-Edna Ferber comedy (1927) based, more or less, on the Barrymores --- that fabled acting family whose colorful siblings, Ethel, John and Lionel, brightened the theatrical world of the 1920s.

For the McCarter production, Ellis Rabb is directing a cast in which Rosemary Harris, Eva LeGallienne, George Grizzard and Sam Levene star. Others on McCarter's stage will be Joseph Maher, Mary Louise Wilson, Rosetta LeNoire, Donald Barton, Mary Layne, Sherman Lloyd, Peter Bosche, Forrest Buckman, Eleanore Phelps, James C. Burge and Miller Lide.

The play will end its McCarter run on Sunday, November 9, and will move on to the Kennedy Center in Washington where it will play from November 12 to December 13.

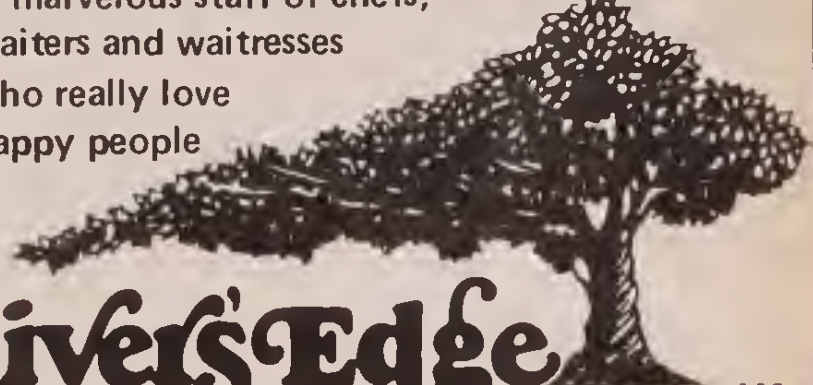

NITTY GRITTY...
 In Two Shows. From bluegrass to rock 'n roll and probably everything in between, whatever that may be, will be on the program for the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, due at Alexander Hall this Saturday for two performances at 8 and 11. Tickets at McCarter.

Nitty Gritty started nine years ago as a jug band. Remember "Mr. Bojangles," "The House at Pooh Corner" and "Cosmic Cowboy?" In 1971, they made an historic, six-sided album which has come to be called "The Country Album of the Decade" and which was probably the first creative, if cautious, meeting between the country Establishment and the country Hippie Counter-culture. The album brought together such old guard musicians as Mother Maybelle Carter, Roy Acuff, Merle Travis, Doc Watson and Earl Scruggs, with Nitty

ALADDIN AND DATE: A Princess, as you can easily see. Both belong to the Vagabond Marionettes, a lively troupe of strolling (or dangling) players who will settle in at McCarter for two performances on Saturday, November 1. Young audiences may watch Aladdin and the Princess at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. The performance is one hour long.

All four play a variety of instruments: bass, steel guitar, fiddle, banjo, dulcimer and acoustic guitar, trading them back and forth during a performance.

"LONG AGO...."

Aladdin is Coming. "...in a far-away place, there lived a poor boy named Aladdin and his widowed mother."

Little did they know that one day they would be on the stage of McCarter Theatre, disguised as members of the Vagabond Marionettes. Aladdin, et al, will be at McCarter Saturday, November 1 for two performances—11 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the "Specially for Kids" series.

Flying carpets, of course. Plus disappearing caves and even a live actor who plays the giant Genie-of-the-Lamp. He's the one who appears to Aladdin, unlocks for him all the treasures of the world, and gets him the hand of the Princess (of course there is a Princess!) besides.

After the hour-long performance, there will be a demonstration of the art of puppetry.

"Specially for Kids" will, in future presentations, offer The Paper Bag Players, magician Milbourne Christopher and five movies, starting November 22 with the Disney "Alice in Wonderland." Subscriptions and single tickets at the box-office.

PLAYERS MEET

For Film, Play Reading, Princeton Community Players will hold their third general meeting Sunday, November 2, at 8:30, at the theater, 121 Broadmead. Members will see the film of "And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little," which was the final Players production of last season. "Miss Reardon" received excellent notices and the general meeting is an opportunity for anyone who missed the original production to see it on film.

The Players were also scheduled to hold the second in a series of play readings this Wednesday at 8 p.m., to read Lucille Fletcher's psychological thriller "Night Watch" in an informal gathering in the Green Room of the Players' Little Theatre. November play readings will include Edmond Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac," Wednesday November 5 and

EN FRANCAIS....

Dancers, Parisian Style. "Invitation a la Danse" is the program that will be danced and mimed this Thursday evening by the Aparri Ballet Company for the Cercle Francais de Princeton. The program, open to anyone interested in French culture, will be given at 8:30 p.m. in the Faculty Lounge of the Engineering Quadrangle on Olden Street.

Casilda Huber, Roberta Cestare and Jon Lorrain, from the Aparri group, will dance and mime a group of scenes whose theme is fashion and romance. Popular French tunes of recent years, such as "La Vie en Rose," will provide the musical background for the informal presentation.

Casilda Huber, Princeton High School student who plans a career in fashion, has returned to the Aparri School of Dance to study ballet. She was a student at the school as a young child. Roberta Cestare, professional dancer, is new to the Aparri faculty this year, having danced professionally in Germany and Monaco. In addition to the French scenes, she will dance "Chocolate" from "The Nutcracker." Jon Lorrain is best known to Princeton audiences for his work as an actor. He has played leading roles in the films of Frederick Olessi.

IN THE FRENCH MANNER: Casilda Huber, of the Aparri Ballet Company, will dance a series of short scenes evoking the style and chic of Paris for members and friends of the Cercle Francais de Princeton, this Thursday evening. Ms. Huber, a senior at Princeton High School, is the daughter of Richard Huber and Mrs. Hans K. Sander. (John Apai Photo)

The play is under the direction of faculty advisor James Landi. Michael Wurzel is the student stage manager.

Student tickets are $1, adults, $2. For reservations call 924-5600, ext. 224.

Royal Flash. In an apparent effort to rekindle the mixture of humor, swashbuckling action and epic period delight he injected into "The Three (and Four) Musketeers", director Richard Lester has chosen in "Royal Flash" a fictional 19th century rake for another pseudo-historical romp. This time the results are less satisfying.

Lavishly mounted and boasting a superlative cast, including Malcolm McDowell, Alan Bates, Florinda Bolkan, Oliver Reed and Britt Ekland, the film is frequently inspired -- especially when Lester indulges in his penchant for slapstick and anachronistic sight gags. But, unlike the Soundly trouncing the old world ideal of the British officer-gentleman, McDowell portrays the unscrupulous Captain Harry Flashman, a soldier who turns cowardice into the illusion of bravery and sheer bravado into what passes as breeding.

With its tortuous deceptions and cloak-and-dagger con- trivances, the film is basically a juvenile whiz-bang ad- vantage spiced up with some sex and scandal. Although the characters and gags begin to flag, the film has its fair share of hilarious situations: a duel between Lola Montez (Ms. Bolkan) and an operatic soprano whose aria she interrupted during a bedroom tantrum; a 19th century version of musical chairs played with well-bred viciousness by German nobles to the tune of a chamber orchestra; and the transformation of a London gambling den into a society salon when the police arrive for a bust.

Fun in spurts, but the whole enterprise is treated as if it were just one big throw away joke. Royal Flash ends up going nowhere.

Hearts of the West. In this affectionate parody of moviemaking in Hollywood in the 1930s, Jeff Bridges plays an idealistic farm boy who almost becomes a cowboy star but is conned out of his opportunity.

Bridges's portrayal and that of Andy Griffith as a drunken cowboy actor and Alan Arkin as a seedy director are the best parts of "Hearts of the West." Bridges is Lewis Tater, an Iowa hayseed and aspiring western pulp novelist whose introduction to the sham values and artifice of the movie colony is the first step in a career that goes haywire.

As a satire on the shallowness of the film colony,

Hague Philharmonic Opens Concert Season Here To Enthusiastic Reception from Its Audience

The Hague Philharmonic, under the sensitive direction of Jean Martinon, opened the Princeton University Concert Series at McCarter Theatre on Monday with a performance whose quality crescendoed throughout the evening. The program was an unusual one whose only common denominator appears to have been the position of the number four in each title of the pieces performed.

The performance of Schumann's "Symphony No. 4 in D minor, Opus 120", reflected Martinon's fine exposed sections, but their performances later in the evening left little doubt as to their adequacy.

The orchestra appeared in abbreviated form for the performance of Mozart's Concerto No. 4 in E-flat major for French Horn and Orchestra, K. 495. This piece, the only representative of the classical period on the program, was justified only by the artistry of French-Horn player Vicente Zarzo. The French Horn is exceedingly difficult to play and even the finest players cannot know when a slight deviation of air pressure will cause a major howler.

Zarzo managed his part with ease and with a wonderful control of tone quality. The orchestral accompaniment is only a glorified continuo part, the work serving chiefly as a display case for the virtuoso. While it was exciting to hear this unwieldy instrument put through its paces, this is hardly Mozart at his best.

Nielsen's Symphony No. 4, Opus 29, closed the program and brought down the house. This work, nicknamed the "Inextinguishable" by the composer, might well be renamed the "Indefatigable." Only a composer of mammoth energy, enthusiasm and optimism could have conceived this work.

Nielsen purportedly illustrated the triumph of life forces in this work. What comes across is rather a triumph of persistence. This sprawling piece, with its sensual orchestration and striking range of ideas, was performed with gusto.

The orchestral forces, which include woodwinds in threes and an extended brass section, outdid the array which Schumann made use of. Not only the size of the orchestra, but the imagination and joy with which these forces are deployed mark this piece.

There are frequent mood changes which are embodied in radical changes in orchestration. These shifts were dynamically and convincingly handled by Martinon and his orchestra.

The Nielsen Symphony is a work which requires and received an expansive interpretation. The shape, pace, and dynamic flow of the performance all combined to engage the audience in vital way.

After this full program, the orchestra performed a gentle and soothing encore selected from Bizet's "L'Arlesienne." This work, scored for string orchestra, provided a relaxed close to an otherwise exciting evening of music.

—Judith Shatin

TOWN TOPICS' new music critic is Judith Shatin, a doctoral candidate at Princeton University. A composer, Ms. Shatin has had her works performed at the Juilliard School of Music, Douglass College and the Mercer Arts Center. She has recently been awarded a $2,800 fellowship from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, an award that will enable her to complete a concerto for viola and 25 instruments. She plans to hold open rehearsals of the concerto so that the public can see and hear the work as it progresses.

sense of nuance and phrasing. The orchestra, which he here conducted from memory, was quite responsive to his demands.

Martinon is not a conductor who needs to rely on overstated gestures to obtain results. The musicians react to his smallest move. The inner two movements, that is the delicate Romanza and the bouncy Scherzo, fared well. Martinon's attention to detail resulted in a beautiful clarity of musical idea.

However, many of the difficult tempo changes of the first and last movements were out of phase and the ensemble was at times distressingly inexact. The full orchestration of this work, though not particularly imaginative in spite of extensive revision, did show off the power of the string section. The woodwind and brass sections were weak in some

QUARTET HERE MONDAY In Memorial Concert. The Princeton University Concerts will present the Vermeer Quartet on Monday at 8:30 in McCarter Theatre. The event is designated as the Charles S. Robinson Memorial Concert.

Mr. Robinson, a benefactor of Princeton organizations and activities, died in 1926 at the age of 80, and in his will expressed the wish to "promote popular interest in music, through the giving of concerts..." Through his generosity, it is possible for the University Concerts to charge minimal prices for tickets to this concert: $3.95 and $2.50 (including students).

The Vermeer Quartet has won wide acclaim during its first tours of the U.S. and Europe, including the Spoleto Festival. Their concerts in New York -- Carnegie Hall and Hunter College -- drew enthusiastic reviews; the N.Y. Times wrote: "...a performance of a quality to place it among the top quartets active today."

Members of the quartet are Shmuel Ashkenasi, Violin (who appeared on Series I in 1966 in a solo violin recital), Pierre Menard, Violin (student of Quebec Conservatory and Juilliard, winner of First Prize in Chamber Music at Quebec, many solo appearances), Nobuko Imai, Viola (soloist with several European orchestras, N.Y. recital debut in 1968, frequent participant in the Casals, Marlboro and Spoleto Festivals), Marc Johnson, Cellist (graduate of Eastman and Indiana, soloist with Rochester Philharmonic and Denver Symphony).

The program for Monday's concert in Princeton will be Mozart: Quartet in C Major, K. 465; Ginastera: Quartet No. 2, and Schumann: Quartet in A Minor, Op. 41, No. 1.

Tickets are now on sale at the McCarter box office.

"Hearts" is superficial and predictable. Making one of Bridges's childhood western heroes into the instrument of his failure—Griffiths not only loses the kid his spot at the studio but even submits one of his western novels under his own name—is stacking the cards a little too tightly. The targets are too easy.

Still, though it never delves far beneath the surface, the film has some wonderful comic bits as when Bridges in his first outing as an extra rushes the hero like a stealthy commando and dies like a hatfield martyr.

has individually pleasing parts but lacks the focus to make the sum of those parts in any way memorable.

PRINCE

Emmanuelle. Columbia's first "X", "Emmanuelle" is a soft-core French fantasy about a young wife's search for sexual fulfillment in Bangkok. It is based on a 1957 novel by Emmanuelle Arsan (a pseudonym) which was banned by DeGaulle in 1963.

The film paints a landscape of bored, decadent French expatriates who seem to have nothing else to do with life than dabble in each other's flesh. It is full of prettily photographed nudity—exclusively female—and a tame assortment of soft-core couplings, which along with the novel's reputation probably accounted for its record-breaking success in Paris.

Compared to the "Deep Throat" standards of the U.S., "Emmanuelle" is tame, dull stuff. To its credit, the film is lovely to look at and is graced with a collection of well-stacked females who are adept at dropping their clothes and achieving strained looks of ecstasy during the simulated sex scenes. Unfortunately, the utter boredom of diplomatic life in the film and the snappy dialogue they chew on. When Bronson wins a climactic fight and gets Coburn off the hook, he ends up on another freight train—probably to re-emerge in a sequel.

PRINCE

Hard Times. Depression-era New Orleans is the setting for Charles Bronson's latest outing, "Hard Times", a gritty and effective combination of melancholic period atmosphere and suspense-laden action.

Bronson finds himself in an ideal vehicle as a rugged, individualistic street fighter who won't let his fists enrich or corrupt him. He receives fine support from James Coburn as his likeable weasel promoter.

The film is well paced, alternating between the atmosphere of Bronson's solitary existence—including his near relationship with Jill

Ireland, a lonely convict's wife—and four or five excellent fight sequences. One is staged inside a three-story wire cage surrounded by tiers of screaming spectators and another in a deserted oyster factory.

The Depression supplies a nice mood but relatively little relevance. What is relevant are the intriguing characters in the film and the snappy dialogue they chew on. When Bronson wins a climactic fight and gets Coburn off the hook, he ends up on another freight train—probably to re-emerge in a sequel.

AN AMERICAN IN CHINA: Brush paintings of Mountains are part of the record made by Tom George during his stay in the Kwangsi province. They are now on display at the University Art Museum.

ART
In Princeton

ART FROM CHINA

By American Painter. Chinese art has traditionally combined the religious philosophy of its people with sensitive renderings of a landscape that is peculiar to that part of the world. Nature forms and controlled but fluid brushwork have been employed to express the harmonies and conflicts of man and nature through the combinations of symbolic forms, formalized techniques and the re-presentation of the actual landscape.

When Tom George travelled to China to study the landscape, he was confronted with mountains and rivers that have been rendered by Chinese painters for centuries. To this scene he brought a definite personal form of expression that relied very heavily on a contemporary interpretation of classical calligraphy and a personal statement about landscape painting. The resulting collection executed while travelling through the mountain provinces, is a harmonious blend of contemporary style and traditional subject using interpretive line to create the patterns and rhythms that the artist found in his surroundings.

George has focused on mountain landscape in his earlier work, always reducing his subject to line and pattern while using his brush to intensify the dynamics created by the black of the ink and the intense white of the paper. In turning to the Chinese landscape, he has combined the above elements with the poignant calligraphy that so often heightens the effect of the Chinese painting. Apparently the nature of the subject exerts a partial control over the artist. Although the drawings maintain the vigor and pattern of George's earlier work, they are tempered by the careful balances and a more formal oriental calligraphy in order to serve the visual demands placed upon the artist by the views before him. The current display at the museum also includes a collection of drawings by American artists, or so it is billed. The show is reminiscent of an earlier collection shown at the museum in that it includes a great deal of work whose artistic value is open to question. It is ostensibly indicative of a kind of work that is seriously regarded in other parts, but we must take exception to its value until we are otherwise informed.

As in previous displays, the museum while presenting works that do not fall within the boundaries of familiar definition, has ignored its responsibility to the viewer by offering no guidelines to understanding the new values that must be considered. We consider that part of the responsibility of any public exhibition area is to educate and to help expand the tastes and horizons of the viewer.

It is even more important when a teaching institution presents new ideas that it follow through by offering some assistance to the untutored in developing new criteria. By not doing so, it keeps the viewing experience exclusive and ultimately limits the artistic impact and reach of the works displayed.

At McCarter Theatre. A multimedia exhibit sponsored by the Princeton Art Association can be seen at McCarter through October.

Watercolor, oils, acrylics, silk screen and intaglio prints are among the many media. As with most group shows, the quality is uneven but the general effect is one of competence with enough truly interesting work to make the collection worthwhile.

At the Kirby Art Center-Lawrenceville School. The Princeton Bicentennial Portfolio has been displayed in several locations. It takes on a new dimension, however, by the inclusion of the printing plates in the current exhibit at the Kirby Arts Center at the Lawrenceville School. The materials on display form the nucleus of a printmaker's handbook. Metal etching plates, collographs created from scraps of board, incised masonite and small scraps which reproduce to form a work of art offer new insights into this well-known collection.

At the University Chapel. An exhibit of the work of black American artists spanning the years from 1795 to the present includes an extensive range of media and style. Ranging from sophisticated contemporary graphics to romantic 19th century painting, it includes primitives as well as highly trained artists.

CRAFTS STORE OPENS

On Witherspoon Street. At last Princeton has an honest-to-goodness crafts store. Whatever the cause -- the ecology movement, a return to the natural, or a yearning for the nostalgic -- the past few years have witnessed an explosion of the crafts market. Yet, in spite of this, anyone beyond the kit stage has often found it difficult to locate the necessities of his particular craft. Several years ago Hoge Woolwine tried to meet this demand by expanding Nassau Hobby to include crafts, but there was never the room to fully meet his customers' many requests.

Now, he has gone a step further and with his wife, Pat, opened a second store.

Although it's on Witherspoon Street, the name is Nassau Crafts, and Mrs. Woolwine told us they will be carrying open stock on an extensive line of crafts.

For instance, in the candle area there are plastic molds, sand set for getting a hard crust on sand molds, wicks, scents, colors, thermometers (a must), decorating palettes, metal molds and 11-pound blocks of wax ($3.89).

Most impressive is a case filled with professional tools for sculpting wood, stone, plaster, wax or clay. There is also casting plaster, terra cotta clay, alabaster and African wonder stone.

In addition to macrame, decoupage and tole, we noticed several of the more unusual crafts. There are dyes and waxes for making your own Batik designs; linoleum blocks, cutters, rollers and inks for block printing; and materials for weaving, splinting and caning.

Sand Designs. Recently

TIME ON YOUR HANDS? If so get them to work by stopping at the new Nassau Crafts store and tempting yourself with one of their varied projects. Owner Pat Woolwine has brought open stock of everything, making it possible to delve into a craft at any level.

sand designs have been popular, but unfortunately the supplies can generally be found only in kit form. However, Nassau Crafts now carries Terrasand and Terragravel in a range of colors and with them is a booklet describing the hydroponic gardening you can do in these containers.

One of the marvelous aspects of crafts is that many can be enjoyed by all ages and talents. A first grader can create a replica of a stained glass ornament with a Make It and Bake It kit, $1.98. Designs such as an angel, a seahorse, the sun or a hockey player are available, and the crystals are also sold separately (39 cents a bag) so you can vary the colors if you wish.

Children will also like the bags (39 cents each) of coffee stirrers which can be used to make baskets, pictures, a bird house and many other imaginative things. Here, as with all the crafts, there is a paperback book to guide you through the various steps, $1 to $2.

Nassau Crafts has beads in every conceivable size from large wooden ones for macrame plant holders down to tiny Puka ones for necklaces. With a selection of beads, a small bag of liquid silver (69 cents) and a clasp (20 cents), you can easily make an inexpensive but fashionable necklace.

While Mrs. Woolwine plans to emphasize the open stock materials, there are a few kits, such as one with the wood and rush necessary for making a Colonial footstool, $4.95. Other kits include a sandscape in a domed terrarium, a plaster molded manger scene, and a string sculpture of the Mariner II, $4.98 to $11.98.

We are unable to mention all the crafts you'll find here or the new ways you may want to use these materials. So stop by Nassau Crafts at 70 Witherspoon Street (across from the Library) any Monday through Saturday from 10 to 5:30 and explore for yourself.

NEW APPROACHES

At Astrology Shop. In the year since the Astrology Shop first opened it has grown into a center for people employing different approaches to the same spiritual ends.

Owner and astrologer, Toby Lipman says this happened because the Western occult and astrology are interrelated in that they all deal with a search for self-improvement and ultimately perfection (or Nirvana.)

As the interest in the occult has grown, people searching for more information have requested book on the subject. Mrs. Lipman began to order more "The shop is really an occult book store with quite a range of titles."

Some of these include: "The Cipher of Genesis" by Carlo Soares, $1.75. Mrs. Lipman says this is an incredibly complex and fascinating book, guaranteed to get you into the occult in a hurry.

"The Book of Sacred Magic," $8.95, is an authentic magic manual of Abra-Melin, a Jewish magician of the Middle Ages.

"Astrological Birth Control," $6.95, can help determine when you are most fertile and astrologically the best time for having a child.

In his book "The Tree of Life," Israel Regardie (who is known for exposing the secret doctrines of the society of the Golden Dawn) insists that Magic is lucid, definite and precise, and that it is a way to gain knowledge to other planes, $4.50.

Another suggestion is "Astral Doorways," by J. H. Brennan which guides you to the astral plane. This is not a place, but another level used by the occultists to denote the realm of visual imagination, $6.50.

There is also "Karmic Astrology: The Moon's Nodes and Reincarnation," by Martin Schulman, $3.95. Mrs. Lipman says this one has been extremely popular because it is the first book on nodes (where the orbits of the moon and earth cross.)

Natal Charts. While the books have become an important and active part of this shop, astrology is still Mrs. Lipman's main concern. She continues to do natal charts, plotting the relative positions of the sun, moon and planets at the moment of a person's birth, $35.

These charts are basic to determining the forces affecting your actions at any given time. In studying these charts, Mrs. Lipman found herself comparing the compatibility of people and discovered this to be most rewarding as she helped people understand each other in a new light.

Because of this she has embarked on an experimental dating service in the hopes of matching people who are astrologically compatible. She says, "There have been no pair-ups yet. I want a larger base." Also, there is no charge until you are matched.

The Astrology Shop has classes too. Beginners learn how to calculate natal charts and interpret them, while the intermediates have lectures and seminars on interpretations, $7 and $5 respectively.

For people interested in any of these aspects, there will be an open house Sunday evening, November 2 at 8 p.m. Available at this time for casual conversations will be several local occultists (astrologers, Tarot readers, students of the Qabala, psychic readers and others.) The Astrology Shop, located upstairs at 134 Nassau Street, is open Monday through Saturday from 12 to 3, and other times by appointment.

visioned?" he questions, and adds, "lower-cost housing, for example, might mean higher density. A computerized study would show where best to put such housing."

On the Democratic side, Mrs. Lependorf says,

"I am definitely in favor of low and middle-income housing for Princeton people. I don't want to see them shoved out — the elderly, the employees of the community. We have a duty and a responsibility to make housing available for them, especially for those on fixed incomes."

Commenting on the Mt. Laurel decision, whose intent is to keep communities in New Jersey from zoning out lower-income housing, Mrs. Hall says that doesn't mean environmental factors can't be considered, and cites comments by the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials on the case.

"They recommend studies of soil permeability, percolation tests and so on," she says. "I'm not trying to keep out public housing! Where best to build it is the question."

Restraint on Borrowing. Taxes are a concern, candidates find, although Mr. Moffat says people aren't as worried about taxes as when he campaigned in '72.

"One voter told me he didn't believe in borrowing for current expenses. 'Well, I don't either!' I told him," Mr. Moffat says.

"We try to make it clear that only 20 percent of your tax goes to the community," Mr. Peyton explains. "The best we can do is take a long, hard, look at those county taxes, and at our own. I would like to see more attention paid to maintenance costs. If we make major investments like the bike-paths, it hasn't been brought to my attention how we are going to pay for maintaining them."

Maintenance is in Mr. Moffat's thoughts when he talks about roads. "We have 80 miles of streets," he says. "Ideally, we should spend a lot on surfacing so we wouldn't have to make repairs. If we could do eight miles a year, we've have good roads and very little maintenance, but there is no money for this."

"I belong in the camp that INFORMATION FOR SENIORS: Mrs. Dorothy Johnson (right) of Rocky Hill picks up a copy of "Directory - Information and Services for Older Adults" from Mrs. Gloria Mack, senior library assistant at Mary Jacobs Memorial Library. says let's go slow on highway construction or building wide roads," Mr. Moffat adds, "I do like the thought of NOT putting in through-roads that become raceways."

"Everyone I talk to favors bike paths," he adds.

Mrs. Lependorf is concerned about "hazardous" school routes and hopes for additional talks between school board and Township Committee over these roads. She doesn't think bike paths are the whole answer: "The littlest children can't ride bikes long distances," she observes.

Apathy seems to be the word this year among Township voters — perhaps because it's an off-year election. Mr. Lependorf believes the main issue is "who you want to represent you."

"The kind of person, the kind of experience, the kind of judgment, how that person can work with others, are very important," she says, "You don't want someone with strong and pre-conceived ideas."

"You must have someone who looks at the overall picture and knows how to balance different interests. If you are closed off to listening to another reasoned opinion, it will be a hindrance to discussion and to getting things done."

DIRECTORY AVAILABLE
Services for Senior Citizens. Free copies of the fourth edition of "Directory of Information and Services for Older Adults," a biennial publication of the Council of Community Services, are now at the public libraries in Princeton, Hightstown, Rocky Hill, West Windsor, East Windsor, Cranbury, Twin Rivers and Hopewell.

The directory has been compiled especially for senior residents of the 13 communities served by the Council and other member agencies of the Princeton Area United Community Fund. "We're fortunate that the total cost of printing this attractive booklet has been generously donated by an anonymous friend," explained the Council's executive director, Janet Pearson.

A comparison of the new directory with the 1973 edition indicates the growth in the number of activities and services planned for senior citizens during the past two years by both public and private agencies. Eight pages of information have been added. Among the new listings are the Mercer County Nutrition Project, the Open Cafeteria Program for Senior Citizens at RCA in cooperation with the Red Cross Princeton Chapter, special recreation programs by the Hightstown-East Windsor Recreation and Park Commission and the Princeton Recreation Department, the Stroke Club and the Hearing Society at the Medical Center at Princeton, and the Council of Community Services' Telephone Reassurance.

PROJECT INTERIM
Temporary Housing For Youth. The Princeton YWCA is sponsoring Project Interim, a community program to provide temporary housing for youths who are ex-periencing severe family stress. The need for such a project was established in a two-year study by the YWCA Committee for Racial Justice and the Council of Community services. The Princeton Youth Fund has provided a grant for the organization of the program.
Coordinated by Mrs. Jeffra Nandan, the interim arrangement is available to residents of West Windsor Township and Princeton Borough and Township as citizens open their homes to young people ages 11-17 who need a home away from home for a period of one to 30 days. Counselling services will be used to help reconcile the young person with his or her family.
Suitable interim homes are needed, and Project Interim welcomes offers from families, single parents or single individuals, young or old, who will open their homes to youth in need. Call Mrs. Nandan at the YWCA, 924-4825, ext. 41.

Upset by Colgate, 22-21, Tiger Football Team Heads Uphill as String of 5 Ivy Games Begins

THE THUD OF DEFEAT: Punt by Ed Kuchar slammed into the outstretched hand of Gene Doherty, Colgate linebacker, inside Princeton end zone Saturday and the touchdown it provided eventually spelled 22-21 loss, Tigers' first of the year. (Bob Matthews Photo)

No better than .500 against its two non-Ivy opponents, Princeton's football team now heads into a five-game stretch of Ivy action which may well produce the tightest race since the Tigers ended in a three-way tie for the title with Dartmouth and Yale in 1969. Because the news was better from Hanover last Saturday than it was in Palmer Stadium, the Orange and Black remains atop the league standings with Harvard. It even has less of a chore to perform this Saturday in taking on punchless Penn than the Crimson does in playing host to Dartmouth, whose 10-10 tie with Brown ranks as the upset of the young league season. The game with the Quakers in the Stadium at 1:30 will be the last this fall in which Princeton will rank as the clear-cut favorite over its opponent.

The Tigers dropped from the ranks of the unbeaten last week because two of the various mistakes they made against Colgate proved too costly to overcome. Most glaring was not the final touchdown yielded to the victors in the closing minutes, but the blocked punt which sent the victors off the field at half-time with a gift touchdown.

It was made possible because the kicker, Ed Kuchar, stood far too close to the line of scrimmage when called upon to punt on slippery footing out of his own end zone. Slow to release the kick under any circumstances, Kuchar for some unaccountable reason was barely more than half his normal distance behind the line when punting just before the half ended. It was the second time in a week that a Princeton punt has been blocked, but unlike the good fortune at Cornell, the ball did not bounce out of the end zone and Colgate recovered for a TD.

Last-Ditch Pass Is Good. On the strength of that Princeton mistake, Colgate was within striking distance when Princeton scored for the third time, taking a 21-14 lead. The visitors were able to go 78 yards in just three minutes largely because a wobbly desperation pass was taken away from two defenders for a 41-yard gain. Had it been properly knocked down, Colgate would have been faced with a fourth-and-19 situation on its own 41, instead of having a first on the Princeton 18.

The 22-21 defeat that followed came because the blocked punt had made the defensive breakdown in the last three minutes of the game more than the Tigers could afford to give away. Their problem now, as they move into the climactic portion of the season, is that they have yet to play a good all-around game in their first four, with the 27-7 victory over winless Columbia standing as their best performance.

Rain fell throughout the first half as some 12,500 spectators

saw the Tigers score the first time they got their hands on the ball. It took them just seven plays to go 55 yards, Ron Beible sweeping right end from two yards out.

Late in the second quarter, Colgate appeared to have been held scoreless when a 48-yard drive ended with a fumble that Doug Lang recovered on the home team five. Mistakes that followed eventually cost Princeton the ball game.

Expensive Penalty. With less than four minutes left, the Orange and Black might have run out the clock but a penalty for illegal procedure erased a first down and two plays later, Kuchar tried to punt from behind the goal line. There was plenty of room for him to drop his accustomed 12 yards back, but when he was no more than a scant eight away from the snap, three Colgate linemen burst in on him and linebacker Gene Doherty fell on the solidly blocked kick. Teams in control of such plays simply do not suffer such consequences -- had the blocked punt at Ithaca not bounced out of the end zone for an automatic safety, the Tigers would have been fortunate to have won from Cornell by a slim two-point margin. Last Saturday, it cost them their status as one of the nation's few remaining unbeaten teams.

Colgate's 46-yard punt return, aided by three tackles missed in the slippery footing, set up its second touchdown with just under four minutes left in the period, it was 14-7 for the visitors.

Beible promptly engineered an 88-yard drive that was largely sparked by the running of junior Mike Carter, who got the score on a shot through left tackle from point black range. Morrison's seventh straight conversion this season brought the teams even at 14-all.

A Broken Play. The Tigers' last scoring drive was highlighted by the quick reaction of Greg Adams, who ran for four yards on fourth down when he was unable to set the ball down properly for Morrison on a field goal attempt. The play kept an 80-yard march alive, Bobby Isom taking a pitchout around left end three times for the final 11 yards and Princeton taking what seemed to be a safe 21-14 lead with just 3:14 to go.

Time ran off the clock rapidly as Colgate drove erratically to midfield. There, quarterback Bruce Basile was sacked for a nine-yard loss by Jay Dawson and Ted Schiller. Less than two minutes remained and Colgate was 59 yards away from the goal line.

A prevent pass defense, with no more than three men rushing Basile, could have double teamed every eligible receiver who ran deep and possibly have released a third defender for coverage once the ball was in the air. The Tigers did not, however, deploy that way, and a high, floating pass that cornerback Tom Palmer misjudged was caught by split end Brion Applegate.

Colgate rose to the opportunity presented to it, connected on two of its next three passes for 13 and then five yards and the touchdown. The scoring play was a picturesque fake that started as a sweep to the left and saw Basile throw to tight end Craig Hindman totally uncovered deep in the end zone.

"It's a long bus ride, and we didn't come just for a tie," Coach Neil Wheelwright said later. Basile followed his

Colgate's Victory with 14 Seconds Left May Be Without Equal for Tiger Football

If Colgate's 2,000 rain-drenched fans set a per person decibel record Saturday when their team won, it may have been because in the 106 years of Princeton football, no other team had defeated Princeton with so little time left on the clock.

The record book does not, of course, list such statistics, but a look back through the years of modern football history in Palmer Stadium fails to recall a similar finish. In the even more distant past, it might have happened, but losing a game after 59 minutes and 46 seconds have been played is a real rarity.

Something fairly similar did occur a dozen years ago, when a Dartmouth team trailing by two touchdowns with just over one period to go scored twice in the next ten minutes, making a two-point conversion to win, 22-21. But that chilly November afternoon (in the game postponed a week by the assassination of President Kennedy), Princeton had six minutes left in which to turn the tide.

Princeton last lost by a point as recently as 1973, when it yielded seven points to Brown and then managed to retaliate with only a pair of field goals by Scott Morrison. Earlier that same season, Columbia was likewise a one-point (14-13) victor, taking the lead for good with five minutes left.

Very possibly, the closest parallel from point of view of time left after an opponent had overtaken Princeton took place on November 14, 1954. In Palmer Stadium that day, Princeton led Yale, 24-20, with just 42 seconds to go. Putting the ball in motion on its own 45, Yale scored in just two pass plays, posting a final score of 26-20 on the clock with just 24 seconds left.

Incidentally, that Yale victory ended a string of six straight Princeton triumphs, history recording that there actually was a time when the Tigers dominated the Blue on the football field.

coach's play call perfectly, sweeping right on a keeper and just making it across the goal line for a two-point conversion.

The visitors, executing their option-packed wishbone offense to near-perfection on the rain-soaked turf, fully deserved to win, first because they made no glaring mistakes throughout the afternoon, and second because they took complete advantage of the two of which Princeton was guilty. Now 4-1 and facing no opponents in their remaining five games tougher than Lehigh and Rutgers, they are odds-on favorites to win all the rest.

PENN GOING DOWN

Not an Ivy Challenger. After three years of having a shot at the Ivy title and finishing in first division, Pennsylvania last spring graduated its Class of '75 which included southpaw quarterback Marty Vaughn, running back Adolph "Beep Beep" Bellizeare and numerous other players of distinct ability. None of the seniors ever lost to Princeton, the three-game string ranking as the Quakers' greatest success against the Orange and Black since the late '40s.

Replacements for the graduated personnel have not, however, arrived on the Penn campus, and this year's team will battle Columbia and Cornell to stay out of the Ivy cellar. The Quakers topped Lafayette last week, 13-0, after losing by margins ranging from 5 to 11 points to Lehigh, Brown and Dartmouth.

Jack Wixted, a top ball carrier among the Ivies last fall, spearheads this year's attack, with newcomer Bob Graustein handling the quarterback assignment. He has a fine 63 percent completion average in Ivy action, but the Quakers have an 11 point scoring average that leads only Cornell in the current statistics. If Princeton's defense, distinctly impressive until it yielded the clique spells it out, for Princeton to put it all together. Penalty-free games against Rutgers and Columbia have been followed by costly infractions (for a total of 122 yards) against Cornell and Colgate.

The offense has been unable to mount a consistent running game, and has yielded nine points on blocked kicks—seven of which meant defeat. The defense had a chance to bail the offense out of its sins, but gave up a highly-questionable touchdown when field conditions and the clock were both stacked in its favor.

After four games a year ago, the Tigers were 3-0-1, but lost four of their last five. Whatever thoughts they have of avoiding such a finish by making a run for the Ivy title for the first time in the current decade must begin to unfold this weekend.

FIRST GAME SATURDAY

Between PHS-West Windsor. The Princeton High School football team, which would just as soon forget last week's 50-8 shellacking by undefeated Hightstown, will try to get off on the right foot this week in what will be the first of many meetings with the fledgling West Windsor football team.

The game will be played at 2 Saturday at West Windsor's temporary "home" field, Mercer County Central Park near the Mercer County Community College.

Although West Windsor is only in its second year of varsity competition, the Pirates and not the Little Tigers will enter the game with the better record. West Windsor shutout Notre Dame last week, 19-0, for its third win in a row after an opening loss to Lawrence.

PHS fell to .500 (2-2) after the setback against the Strong ran for a first down to Rams—the same position it was in last year after four outings. PHS coach Jim Beachell reports that he has seen the Pirates play once and predicted a tough game.

Rams Run It Up. About the only mistake Hightstown coach Dave McIntyre and his powerful Ram squad made against the Little Tigers in the rain and mud Saturday was in pouring it on. "I don't appreciate them running up the score like that," said a tight-lipped Beachell.

The game was long out of reach before McIntyre pulled most of his starters with a little over four minutes to go. Even so, the scrubs scored a final TD with 4:19 left to enable Hightstown (4-0) to reach the 50-point mark for the third week in a row. Currently, the Rams enjoy a lopsided 166-22 edge in scoring over their opponents.

As expected, Dana Shelton did the most damage against the visiting Little Tigers, scoring four times on runs of 2, 7, 63 and 5 yards. His total for the day was 207 yards. On the season so far, Shelton has scored 14 TDs and gained 745 yards.

A PHS fan summed it up at halftime after a 24-point second period had put the Rams solidly in front, 32-8. "They can run and they can pass." And he might have added, "...and play defense."

For half of the first period it looked as if PHS and the Rams would battle it out on even terms. After the Rams had scored less than three minutes into the game—aided by a 36-yard pass play and a questionable clipping call against PHS on a Ram punt—PHS came right back to tie it.

On a third-and-12, PHS quarterback Tommy Thomas fumbled the snapback, picked it up on the run and still on the run hit Dave Lacy for a first down on the Ram 35. Tony the 15 and two plays later went over standing up from the six. Needing two to tie, PHS faked a kick and got the two-point conversion when Dan Schulman passed to Lacy.

Turnovers Exchanged. PHS looked as if it might have something going when Ram Quarterback Mike Radics fumbled and Phil Billington recovered for PHS. But two plays later, Thomas, throwing under pressure, had his pass picked off by Bernard Randolph on the Princeton 32. It was all downhill thereafter.

Carrying four straight times while PHS was keying on Shelton, Deron Spady scored from six yards out with 10:19 left in the second period. Shelton ran over from the seven with 5:53 to go and with 1:31 left Radics connected with an 18-yard pass to his fullback, Brian Ishman, all alone in the end zone after faking to Shelton into the line.

For the fourth consecutive time (Ishman circled end) Hightstown converted a two-point conversion. It became a matter for football buffs to check the last time a team had scored 24 points against the Blue and White in one period. Memory fails to recall the last time PHS suffered a worse defeat.

Any hopes PHS may have had of getting back into the game were shattered when Shelton went up the middle, broke a couple of tackles and managed to keep his balance en route to a 63-yard scoring romp with 2:53 left in the third period.

"It proves to me," said a Hightstown supporter midway in the game, "that we can play in the mud." It had rained hard during the first half but neither Shelton nor the rest of the Rams seemed to be affected by the conditions. Maybe a Ram workout in the mud one hour before the game—another sore spot with Beachell—prepared the home team.

But it is doubtful if a dry field would have made much difference. The Rams, a senior-dominated team enjoying it while they can—had too many fine running backs, too much offense for PHS to contain.

HUN EDGES BLAIR, 14-12
To Even Grid Record, Hun scored early and then held off Blair Academy in the mud Monday to win a close 14-12 victory. The margin was Ernie Barbiero's two-point conversion run after Terry McEwen had taken the opening kickoff and returned it 89 yards.
Then after Hun had kicked off, Greg Pabers intercepted a pass on Blair's first offensive play of the game and returned it 40 yards. The extra point attempt kick was blocked.

Hun, which evened its record at 2-2 with the win, will oppose Delbarton next at Morristown. Kickoff is at 1:30.
The game is an important one for both schools because Hun is 2-0 in the N.J. Independent School League and Delbarton (3-1) is 3-0 in league play. "They look like the team to heat in the league," said Hun coach Dave Leele. "We were lucky to take them last year and I look for another tough game."

In Monday's game, Blair came back with two scores in the second half, one a 55-yard punt return. The visitors opted for the two-point conversion each time and each time Hun stopped them, first batting down a pass and stopping their quarterback after Blair's second six-pointer.

After that, the two teams spent the rest of the game swapping fumbles and sloshing back and forth in the mud. "We played a lot of defense, we were up to our knees in mud," commented Leele.

Barbiero led the Hun defense with 14 tackles, receiving a lot of support from defensive end Tony Sumners and Larry Gibert.

Hun got a break in its game-winning conversion. It lined up to kick but Blair was detected offside, moving the ball to the 1½ yard line where Hun decided to run it over.

PIRATES TRIUMPH 19-0

Over Notre Dame. The West Windsor football team prepared for its first meeting with Princeton High School this weekend by defeating Notre Dame last week, 19-0. The win was the third straight for Rex Walker's club, which has already surpassed last year's record.

West Windsor took a 7-0 halftime lead over the winless Irish following a 54-yard pass from quarterback Daryl MacPherson to Dave Duncan. Bill Schroeder converted the extra point.

In the second half two more big plays led to scores. Chris Holcombe raced 82 yards in the third period and MacPherson, connecting on only his second aerial of the game, threw a 33-yard strike to Rudy Wellnitz.

Holcombe led the Pirates' rushing game with 113 yards in nine carries as the victors compiled 173 yards rushing. Notre Dame in losing its 13th straight (what happened to the luck of the Irish?) gained only 39 yards rushing and 52 passing. An 85-yard kickoff return to the West Windsor seven-yard line in the second half was erased by a clip.

MARTIN SCORES THREE

In 28-7 PDS Win. Behind 7-6 at the half, Princeton Day School scored three times in the second half, two by tailback Billy Martin, to defeat Gill-St. Bernard's School Monday, 28-7.

In all, Princeton Day's most productive scorer ever, scored three times on runs of 1, 6 and 1 yards and picked up 144 yards rushing in 28 carries. The win was the fifth in a row for the Panthers without a defeat, while home-team Gill-St. Bernard's lost its second in five starts.

The victory enabled the Blue and White to move one step closer to that first perfect season. It will be at Wardlaw Saturday for a 2 p.m. contest and after that only the finale with rival Hun School remains.

Against Gill-St. Bernard's, Martin scored the only touchdown in the first period but PDS had to settle for a 6-0 lead when a pass for a two-point conversion failed. A two-yard plunge by Kim Miller and Joe Balogna's extra point gave the home team the lead in the second period.

That was erased for good

WINTER TENNIS SET

Under Community
Program. The advanced junior tennis players of Princeton begin a new series of classes this week under the auspices of the Princeton Tennis Program, which will present a complete new format for the winter.

Arrangements have been made to use the Princeton University's Jadwin Gym on Sunday mornings. The response has been so great that additional time has been arranged to keep each student in a small homogeneous group. One class will meet from 9 to 10:30 and the second from 10:30 to noon, on a ratio of three students to one instructor per court.

On Saturdays from 5:30 to 7 p.m. at the Princeton Indoor Tennis Center, as well as selected other times during the week, the advanced tournament players will participate in challenge matches, league play and team matches with other groups. Meeting on Sundays for lessons and practicing on Saturday will give these advanced students opportunity to work at improving their game throughout the winter months.

In addition, the Tennis Office will have available information about the Middle States Grand Prix schedule and other indoor tournaments.
Car-pooling will be arranged to the events whenever possible.

The Winter Excellence Program will be manned by Princeton varsity players selected by Coach David Benjamin. The Saturday matches at the Indoor Center will be under the direction of John Gudzinowicz, the new professional there. He has been on the staff of Williams Tennis Camp for the past two seasons and has been trained in the Van der Meer method of teaching.

There will be one eight-week
session beginning this week and a ten-week session beginning in January. For further information about the Excellence Group or other winter classes, call the Tennis Office, 924-4343.

TOWNSHIP WINS AGAIN

In Ellis-Harris Pistol
Match. The annual Ellis-Harris Memorial Combat
Pistol Match held this month at the Citizens' Rifle and Revolver Club range on Hightstown Road was won for the second year in a row by the Township police.

Members of the winning Township team were Ptl.
James Vandermark, Ptl.
Anthony Gaylord, Lt. Richard
Steiner, Sgt. Anthony Pinelli and Det. Frank Bocciafuso.
West Windsor placed second when the Borough failed to field a required five-man team.

The five individual top scorers (out of a possible 250)
were Ptl. Vandermark, 248; Ptl. Barry Hibbs of West
Windsor, 240; Ptl. Gaylord, 231; Lt. Steiner, 229; and Ptl.
Joseph Wilhelm of the Borough, 227.

The perfect score plaque
donated by the Mather
Funeral Home will be offered each year until someone wins
it. Ptl. Vandermark, the Township top sharpshooter who came within two points of a perfect score, commented that perfect scores on the demanding combat course are rare.

Shooters have to fire at distances ranging from 7 to 50 yards, using both left and right hands in various positions - all within a certain period of time.

As yet, no team has won the original Ellis-Harris trophy the necessary three years in a row to retire it permanently.

charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all
